On July 28, 1971, Northeastern Illinois State College inobtrusively became Northeastern Illinois University—a renaming that occurred inconspicuously in comparison to the other name changes that have taken place during the college's 102 year history. Northeastern's roots date back to 1869 when the Chicago college system began with the Illinois State General Assembly authorization to establish Normal School in the Village of Englewood.

The initial change took place when Englewood was annexed to Chicago and ownership, control, and support of Normal School was transferred to the City of Chicago. During this period the Chicago Department of Public Instruction offered a six month program, the completion of which entitled the students to a teaching certificate. (Unlike our present teaching certificate which requires four years of college and a college degree, the 1890 certificate only entailed six months of work.)

A minor alteration in the structure of Normal School took place in 1896 when the Chicago Board of Education became the sole governing body of the school.

A more drastic and far reaching change took place in 1938 when Normal School was authorized to grant the Bachelor of Education degree as well as the teaching certificate. As part of this change a four year curriculum was introduced and graduate study inaugurated. All of these events occurred simultaneously with the school's name becoming Chicago Teachers College.

As increasing demands were made for accessible teaching-training facilities in Chicago, branches of Chicago Teachers College sprouted up in various locations around the city starting in 1949.

These overcrowded conditions led to the 1957 decision to establish a permanent northside campus at Bryn Mawr and St. Louis Avenues. Educators convened and hearings were held to determine the type of college required to meet the needs of the city. In 1961 this college, Chicago Teachers College North, began operation at its new location.

President Jerome Sachs and Mrs. Berniece Zimmerman, Associate Dean of Students, were both present during those hectic opening days. They both recall how the school was seemingly swamped in seas of mud due to the unfinished landscape, and relate how construction work blocked the passageways in many of the corridors.

According to Dr. Charles Moran, former college vice-president and professor of mathematics, he and fellow faculty members moved into the present Administration building on August 1, 1961, with the students following in September. Dr. Moran recalls "when the building was first occupied a decade ago, there was little difference in the appearance of the main building between now and then. There were no annexes or portables, however, and no glass had been installed in the windows of the Beehive, causing rain to come in the building and forcing the deans and faculty to maintain their offices in the A-wing carrells."

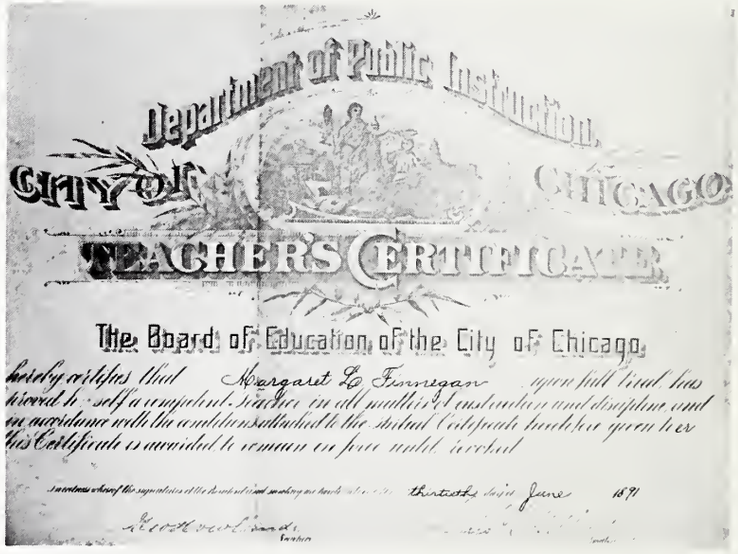

During CTCN's first trimester, the one thousand-member student body consisted almost entirely of residents from Chicago's northwest side. As time passed, a more heterogeneous group of students began to attend. Soon students were coming from all sections of the city and suburbs, as well as from foreign countries.

At the outset, only an elementary education curriculum was offered, but as the needs for secondary education and liberal arts curriculums increased, these two areas also became a part of the college program.

Transferring from the southside Foreman and Sabin branches of the college, the twenty-seven students in the first graduating class received their degrees in May of 1962.

Many of the present professors and administrators have been part of the college since its opening days. A group of professors, including Drs. Goldberg, Scharf, and Walker, came here from Mayfair Junior College. Dr. Sachs held the title of "Academic Dean" and taught three classes when Chicago Teachers College North began in 1961.

On July 16, 1965, ownership and control of Chicago Teachers College was transferred to the Board of Governors of State Colleges and Universities. The CTC campuses were at this point renamed Illinois Teachers College, Chicago North and Chicago South.

When the State took over in 1965, an upheaval occurred among the college's faculty and staff. College teachers with both Chicago Board of Education certificates and Illinois State certificates could continue teaching at Illinois Teachers College North or return to work with the Chicago Board of Education. The college shifted from being a city college to a state college with much confusion and difficulty.

Neither the state nor the city would claim responsibility for the college during this interim period. Dr. Sachs was in Africa and the Board of Education gave Dr. Goldberg the keys and told him to "open the school and start the boilers."

1869	Establishment of Normal School in the village of Englewood.
1891	Transference of ownership of Normal School to the City of Chicago.
1896	Control of school under sole supervision of Chicago Board of Education.
1899	Offering of two year teaching program by Cook County Normal School.
1938	Establishment of Chicago Teachers College with its four year teaching program.
1961	Opening of Chicago Teachers College North.
1965	Changeover to Illinois Teachers College Chicago North.
1967	Name change to Northeastern Illinois State College
1971	NORTHEASTERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY—UNI

President Sachs describes his absence during this period:

> The executive office of the Board of Governors told me not to cancel my work in Africa. I was with an international writing team preparing math texts for African schools. A telegram arrived while I was on a stopover in Africa. It read, 'the umbilical cord has been cut,' and was signed 'Bob Goldberg'."

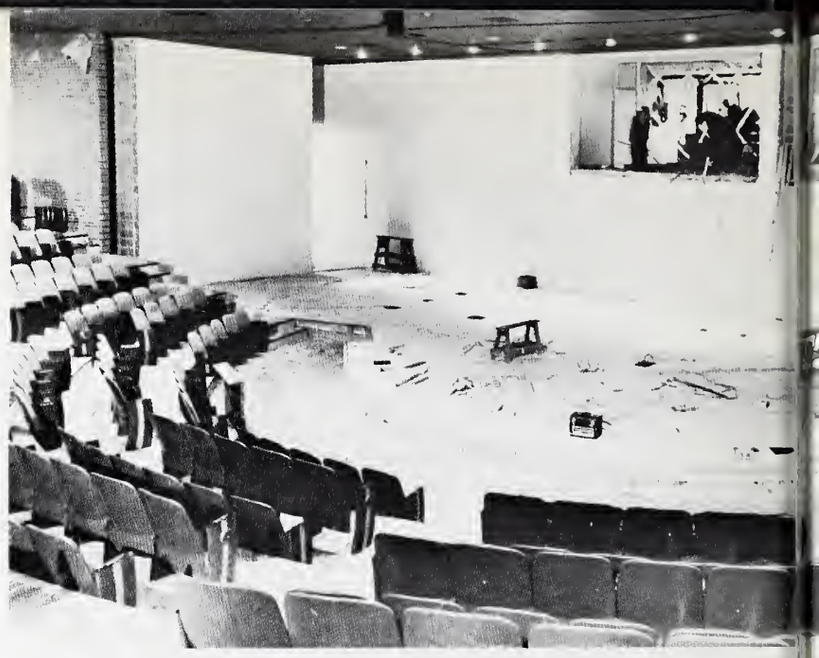

With the Board of Education having decided that its responsibility was over and the state not being ready to accept its obligations to the college, the institution was in a state of limbo. During this time Dr. Goldberg commented, "The college belongs to me, not to the state, not to the city, but to me."

Eventually these difficulties were smoothed over and Jerome M. Sachs officially assumed the title of "President." This change was made in March of 1966.

A more substantial name change took place in 1967. On July 1st of that year, Illinois Teachers College Chicago North became Northeastern Illinois State College. Dr. Sachs clarified the full import of this name change:

> Up to this point many people treated this school like a junior college. With the name change, enrollment increased; 500 more students registered that year than had been anticipated.
> The college was well committed to the idea of experimentation. In 1967 it became apparent that we would maintain an experimental program. This does not mean that the whole school has to be experimental, however. The traditional structure can function embodying the experimental division.

To Dr. Charles Moran the adoption of the name Northeastern Illinois State College meant that "doors were opened for greater expansion."

Dr. Sachs studied the impact of the latest name change:, Northeastern Illinois University, and saw the university's future as follows:

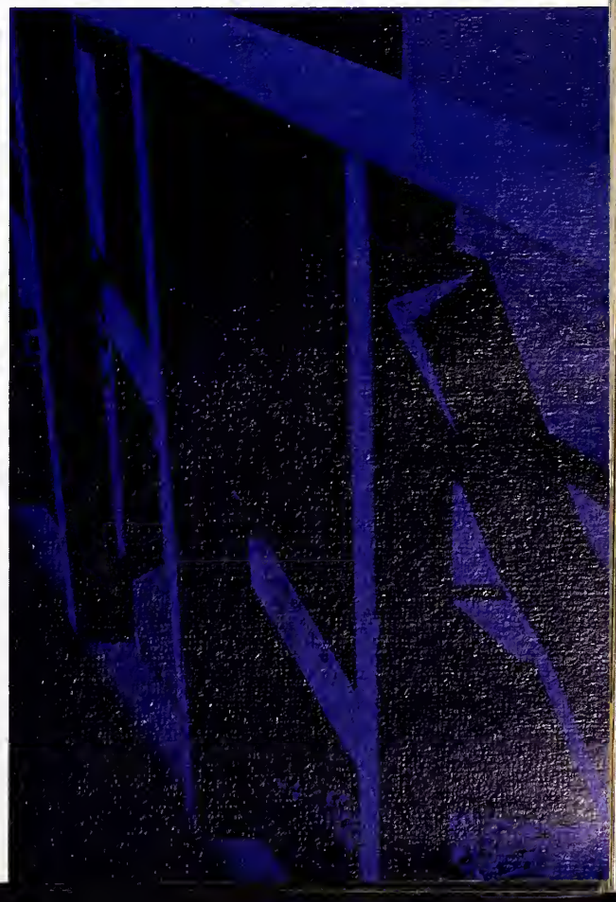

We have made a firm urban committment which it would be foolish to ignore. We are committed to an atmosphere in which experimentation and innovation can go on freely. A College of Business, a new experiment here, is predicted within 5 years. There are more experiments in progress here than in any other college in the state which places us in a unique situation.

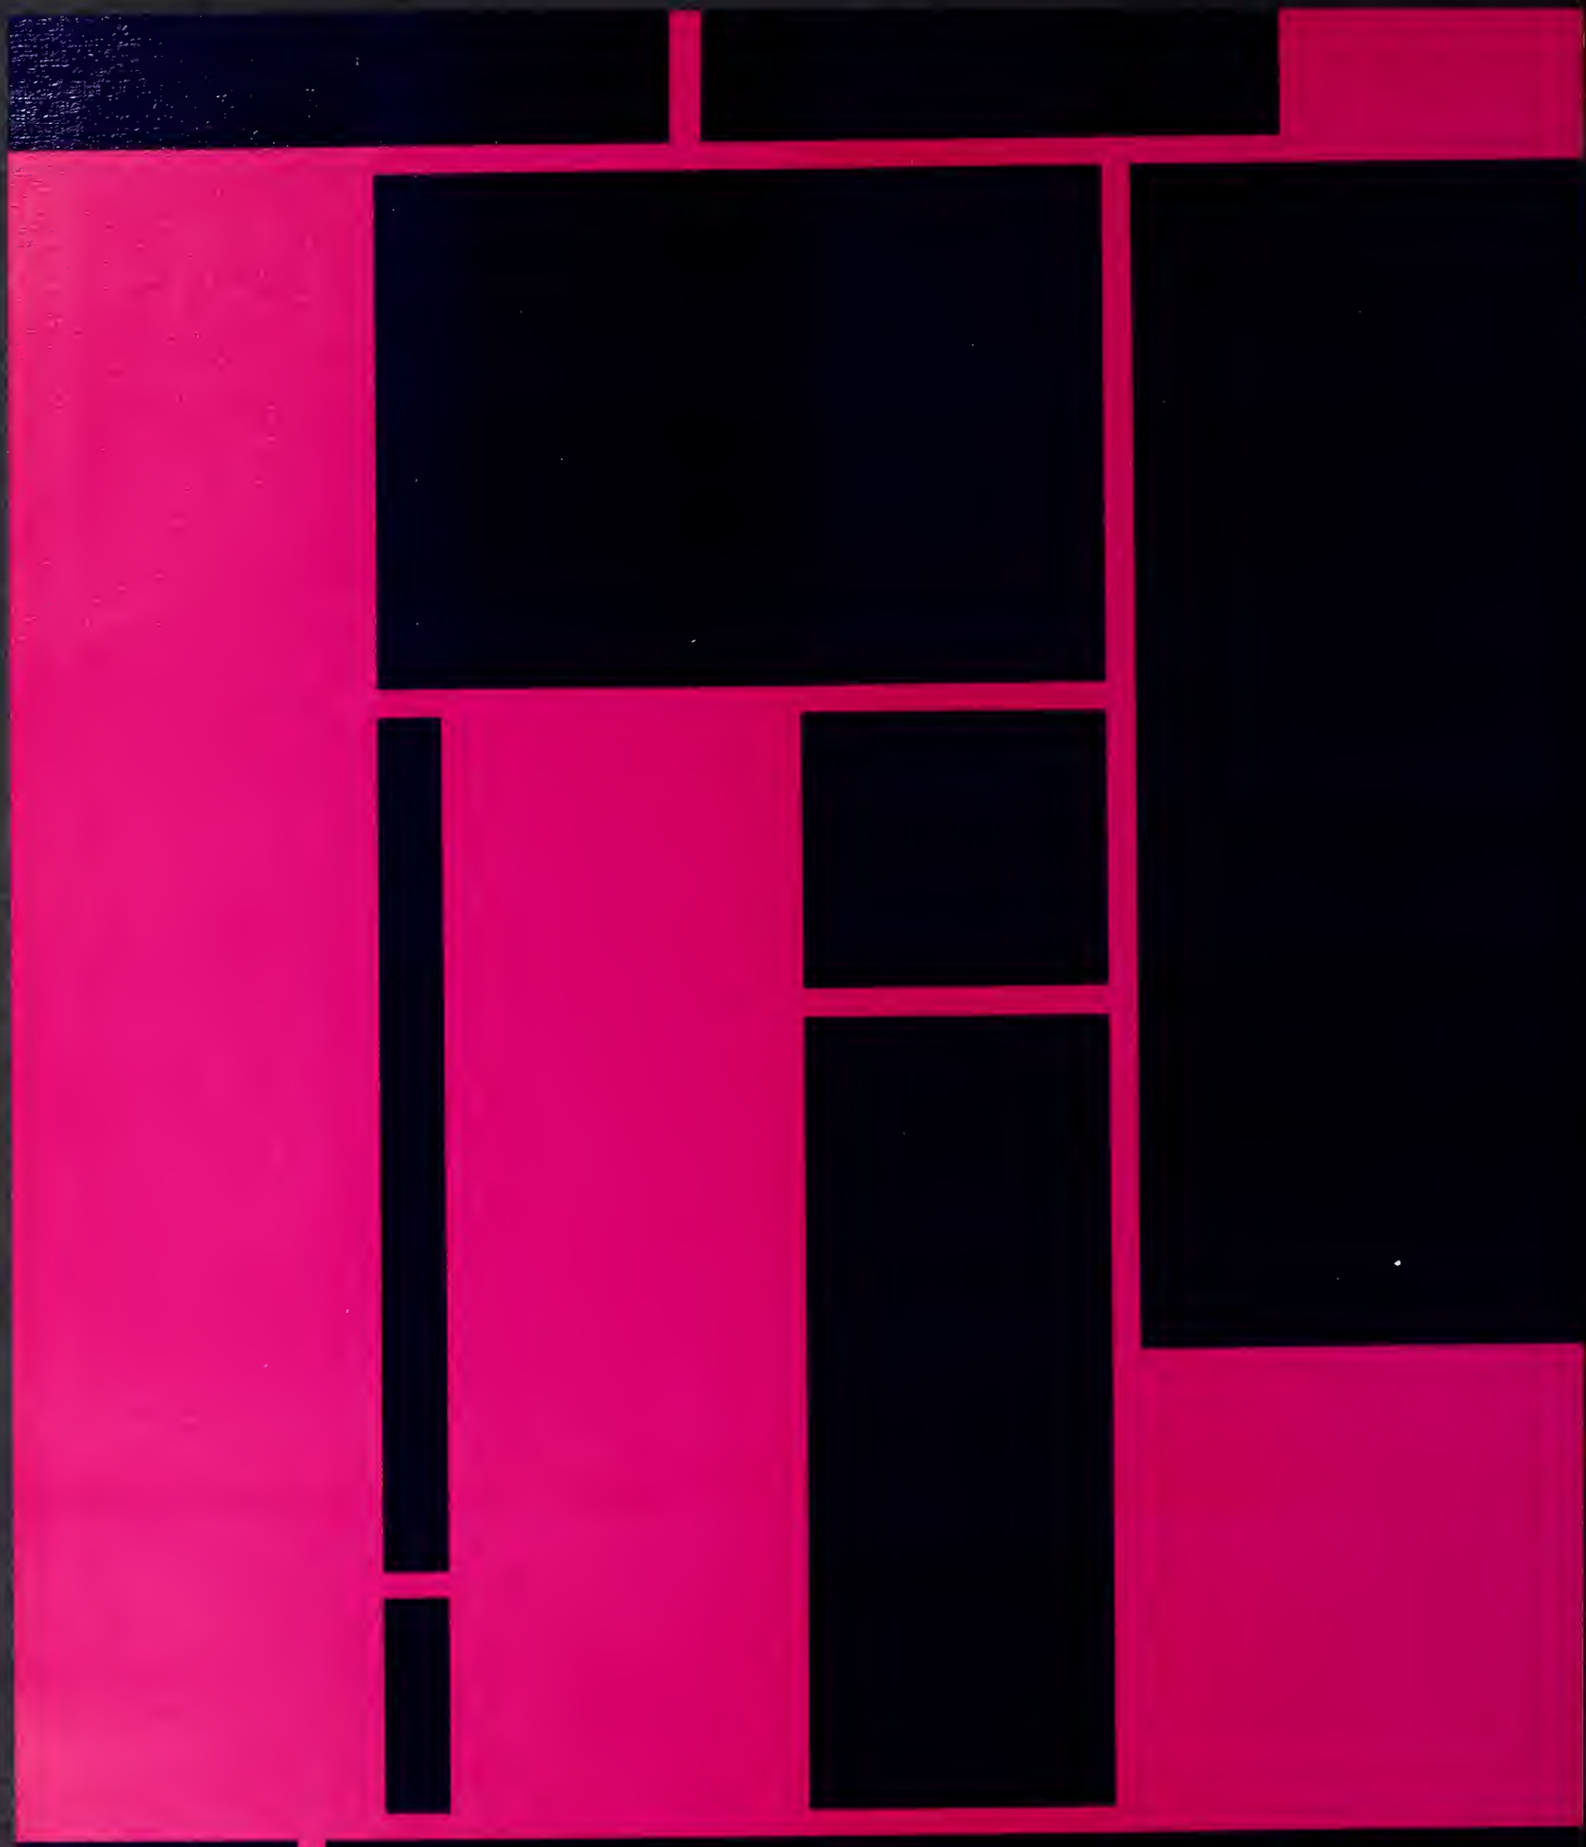

I am concerned that Northeastern Illinois University should experience controlled growth and not become too large. I do not want us to imitate any other institution. We have our own flavor and I want us to develop our own strengths as a first rate teaching institution. Northeastern Illinois University has 8,000 students now, 12,000 is its ultimate goal."

This is the year Northeastern became a University. In our short ten years on this campus, we have had four names and a rapidly expanding set of goals and programs to meet them. We are now a multi-purpose institution offering a wide range of majors. In the progress towards becoming a university everything seemed to be a variable but looking beneath the surface, we can find some very important constants. We are concerned with providing an atmosphere which gives each student a chance to become an educated person developing all of his potentials, which uses our urban environment as a focus, which encourages experiment and innovation for those who want to leave traditional paths, which provides a sense of community for all of us engaged as students, faculty and staff in the enterprise which has become Northeastern Illinois University. What we have accomplished is, and what we will accomplish will be, the result of efforts of many people.

ASSOCIATION FOR CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

The Northeastern Illinois University Association for Childhood Education is a student branch of the professional organization, Association for Childhood Education International. There are many purposes of this organization. These include working for the education and well-being of children, promoting desirable conditions in the nursery and elementary schools, working to raise the standard of teacher preparation, and helping to bring together all groups concerned with children in the school. The primary reason for the founding of the Northeastern branch was to find out what is happening in the field of education in the United States and around the world.

Interesting speakers have appeared at many of the group's meetings including Dr. Baines, from the childhood development program, HEAD START, Mrs. Dorothy Aker from the Masters Degree program for Early Childhood Education from the Erikson Institute, and Mrs. Joan M. Billeck from the volunteer program at the Indian Center. Also participating in the meetings were Dr. Michael Belica, co-ordinator of the Instructional Media Program at Northeastern, Mrs. Yochim, a Chicago Public School District art supervisor, and Mohammed Tamer, a student teacher from Morocco.

During the week of April 11-16, 1970, some of the members attended the Association for Childhood Education Institute Study Conference in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Sponsors for the organization are Mrs. Peri Georgiou, and Dr. Leonard Setze.

The purpose of the Northeastern Illinois University Band is to provide an outlet for those students possessing musical talent and to experience the esthetic value of performing music. In addition to giving concerts, it provides a service to both the school and the community by participating in graduations, and basketball games, and spreading good will outside the school. And finally, it provides a source of musical entertainment and enrichment for the students and the community.

Dr. Gangware came to Northeastern in 1966 to direct the Northeastern Illinois University Band which, at the time, consisted of about twenty-two members who rehearsed on the stage of the auditorium. The band room was a small room behind the auditorium which served as Dr. Gangware's office, a storage room, practice studio, ensemble room, part-time rehearsal hall, teaching studio, and get-togehter room for the music students and band committees. At present, the band shares with the rest of the music department, a small building with six practice rooms, several offices, studios, a rehearsal hall, an ensemble room and a storage room.

Throughout the year the band participates in several regular events. The most important of these are its semester concerts. At these concerts the band performs a wide variety of music including serious band music, orchestral transcriptions, popular show tunes, and even experimental forms of contemporary music. These popular concerts are scheduled every semester usually every Wednesday evening. In addition to these concerts a pep band is formed from the large concert band which helps to provide a zesty spirit at our home basketball games. The pep band also accompanies the team on one away game during the season.

The climax of the year is the annual band tour. Every year the band goes on tour throughout the midwest. These tours help to spread the name of the college to high schools in our neighboring states. In addition to all these events the band occasionally performs at special functions such as honors convocations, and various community events upon request.

Organized by the biology majors at Northeastern, the Biology Club was started as a means by which members could gain more knowledge of their field. Since the time of its inception, the club has successfully established a speaker series which incorporates the demonstrations of all aspects of biology and related areas. During 1971, speakers from the Garfield Park Conservatory, the Issac Walton League, and the faculty and student body have contributed to the series.

In the warm summer months the Biology Club organizes field trips to the various natural locales within the proximity of the college. Among the areas visited were the Warren Woods, the Indiana Sand Dunes, Starved Rock, and the Illinois Prairie Path.

At the present time the Biology Club is concerning itself with the problems of the environment, population, and pollution, and what the individual student at Northeastern Illinois University can do to help alleviate these problems.

ECOLOGY CLUB

Awareness of the increasing environmental problems led to the beginning of the Ecology Club in late 1970.

The purpose of the Ecology Club is to inform the college community about and involve it in, the crises facing our natural world. Through means of articles and lectures, the club strives to provide information not only from the somewhat biased ecologist's viewpoint, but from the industries' side as well. Recycling drives and the organization's own planned Earth Week, were two of the activities in which the club worked to enlist community involvement.

BLACK CAUCUS

The Black Caucus is in the deepest sense, the Black Student Government at Northeastern. When the need arises to act on the behalf of any Black student's interests, members of Black Caucus work together to find a way to resolve the situation. Constantly the members of Black Caucus are mindful of their interests, both as Black people and as students striving in today's educational system.

The Black Heritage Club is an organization for Black students whose immediate goal is to expose its members to their heritage as African people and then to live according to the principle of such people. In addition, the club is the medium for communication among Black students and the total student body of Northeastern.

Cultural events, speakers on topics of interest to Blacks and various kinds of entertainment are also provided by Black Heritage.

The Black Heritage Club taps the resources of each of its members in order to create a viable fraternity and a unity that will prepare the members to work within their own situations, whether as students, teachers, brothers, sisters, or friends, in order to build a strong Black Nation.

FOLK DANCE CLUB

The excitement and challenge of learning dances from other countries bring the folk dancers of Northeastern together. Sponsored by Mrs. Bettye Ehrlich, the men and women of the Folk Dance Club meet once a week to practice the many intricate and graceful steps characteristic of each culture. Adding to the unique flavor of each dance are the colorful and authentic costumes that accurately show each country's mode of dress.

Demonstrating its skills at performances throughout the year, the Folk Dance Club has danced for the college at dance festivals, at freshman orientation, and for various schools, churches, and senior citizens' clubs.

Membership in the Folk Dance Club only requires that a person has interest, enthusiasm, and a willingness to learn.

The Forensics Union, which promotes participation in inter-collegiate debate activities by Northeastern undergraduates, began its third season of competition during the 1970-1971 school year. Sponsored by the Department of Speech and Performing Arts, the debaters traveled to tournaments throughout the Midwest. The team went to tournaments hosted and held at the following schools: Wisconsin State University (Whitewater), Eastern Illinois University, University of Wisconsin (Milwaukee), Bradley University, University of Illinois (Chicago Circle), Purdue University, Loyola University (Chicago), Northern Illinois University, Wayne State University, and Illinois State University.

The French Club, sponsored by Mrs. Dorette Walner, is open to all Northeastern students interested in the French language and culture.

1971 was a very active year for the club. In February many French students were given the opportunity to go to Quebec, Canada in order to see the Winter Carnival and visit Laval University. On campus, a Northeastern student from Haiti (a French speaking country), talked about life in Haiti. The club also worked with the Music Department in presenting a French Band Concert which was attended by many of the French Consulate and Cultural Service officials. A French Variety Show, sponsored by the group, was one of its Spring activities. Included in the show were scenes from Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme, original skits written by students, and many favorite French songs.

In addition to these projects, the French Club attended a professional production of Moliere's Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme at Rosary College. A former Northeastern student, now a resident of France, told the club of her experiences in France. Another talk was given by a graduate student from France who was attending Northeastern. Later in the year the French Club and the Italian Club joined forces and shared in a picnic near Rockford. The year ended for the French Club with a banquet at the Flying Frenchmen Restaurant.

GEOGRAPHY CLUB

Northeastern's Geography Club was organized with the idea of helping interested students learn about the physical and cultural environment around them.

In the past the club has sponsored field trips to areas of physical and cultural interest, such as Devil's Lake in Wisconsin and an Amish community in Indiana. The club also has presented films and speakers on interesting topics.

The club's most popular activity is the monthly dinner at a restaurant specializing in a specific nation's cuisine. Some of the past dinners included the sampling of food from Mexico, the British Isles, Japan, Italy, and from the colonial period of America.

Not exclusively for Geography majors, the Geography Club is open to anyone interested in the world around him.

German Club is a unique organization on Northeastern's Campus. Its purpose is to promote educational, cultural, and social activities which provide opportunities for students to increase their efficiency in the German language and their understanding of the German culture.

During the past year, the club has focused its attention mainly on the cultural and social aspects of the German people. Some of the activities included a discussion on the German Educational System, an Oktoberfest, a Liederfest, and a Weihnachtsfest.

The club is open to all students, who are genuinely interested in German culture.

LINGUISTICS CLUB

The Linguistics Club of Northeastern Illinois University has been in operation for only about three years. Open to all students interested in languages and the field of linguistics, the club is dedicated to the study of the structure of human language which is quite often taken for granted. The club has provided a forum where students may discuss and investigate aspects of linguistics, especially in its relation to other fields such as literature, psychology, anthropology, and English teaching.

In 1971, the club experiences a most successful year. In December of 1970, two club members, Linda Immergluck and John Barnitz, flew to Washington, D.C. to attend the forty-fifth annual meeting of the LINGUISTIC SOCIETY OF AMERICA. This widened their awareness of current trends in linguistics, and they, in turn, shared their experience with the rest of the club.

During the winter trimester of 1971, the club sponsored a lecture series on various aspects of language. Included in the series were:

Mr. Edward Maxwell who presented two lectures on the dynamics of lexicology and semantics. The titles of the two-part presentation were: "Why a Rose by any other Name Isn't One," and "You May Persuade Me Not To, But You Can't Dissuade Me To!"

Mr. Eugene Grace presented a lecture on the development of syntax in the Romance languages, which was entitled: "Why We Say Viva Fulbright instead of Fulbright Viva."

The climax of the winter lecture series was a guest lecture by Dr. William Labov, renowned sociolinguist and authority on Black English from the University of Pennsylvania. He presented "Who Has Verbal Skills: A Study in Black and White."

The final guest lecturer of the Winter Trimester was Dr. John P. Maher. His talk, entitled "Greek petros 'stone' - German Feder 'spring' - English feather" was a comparative-historical study of lexicalization.

The Linguistics Club presented another guest lecturer on June 10, 1971. The Club invited Dr. Rae Moses, Assistant Professor of Linguistics at Northwestern University, to speak. Her lecture, entitled "First and Second Language Learning: Same or Different?", was a comparison of a child's acquisition of his native language to that of an adult trying to learn a foreign language.

The Linguistics Club is very much concerned with closing the communication gap between the faculty and students. In pursuit of this endeavor, a student representative from the club attends the faculty department meetings, expressing the students' views on such issues as curriculum. Also, at the end of every trimester, the club runs a faculty evaluation survey which enables the students to evaluate teacher performance so that instructors may receive constructive criticism and suggestions.

The 1971 Linguistics Club is a rather young club, but an ever-growing one, with its members tightly knit in a common bond of cultural interest—language.

INTERPRETER'S THEATRE

PO-POREE PLAYERS

The Po-Poree Players, the touring company of Interpreter's Theatre, has been visiting schools in the area. They have performed portions of Othello, and Feiffer Cartoons and Thurber Fables.

More recently the group has put on the Rod Serling short story, The Monsters Are Due on Maple Street. Roosevelt, Amundsen, Good Council, and Niles West were among the high schools where this last script was enacted. Produced by Interpreter's Theatre, The Monsters Are Due on Maple Street was directed by Kathleen Saferstein, graduate assistant and assistant-sponsor of Interpreter's Theatre.

Another of the achievements of Interpreter's Theatre was the praise received by the group as a result of its performances at the Interpreter's Festival at Kutztown University in Pennsylvania.

CLUB ITALIANO

The Foreign Languages Department initiated the teaching of Italian at Northeastern Illinois University in the Fall Trimester of 1970. In conjunction with this, interested students organized the Club Italiano. As stated in its constitution, the main objectives of the Club are to establish a better understanding and appreciation of Italian culture. It also provides its members with opportunities for practical experience in working together, developing leadership and responsibility, as well as discovering and utilizing sources of Italian cultural interest.

Membership in the Club Italiano is open to any registered student at Northeastern.

Various events have highlighted the activities of the Club during the academic year 1970-1971. On Sunday, November 1st, the Club met with the well-known entertainer, Sergio Franchi, who accepted an honorary membership in the Club Italiano. Recognition was given to Mr. Franchi for his contribution to Italian Arts and his humanitarian spirit in aiding the Boys Town of Italy. The Club also attended Mr. Franchi's benefit performance at the Auditorium Theatre.

A visit to the Art Institute for a special exhibition of 18th century Italian painting: Rococo to Romanticism, gave the Club's members an insight into Italian art.

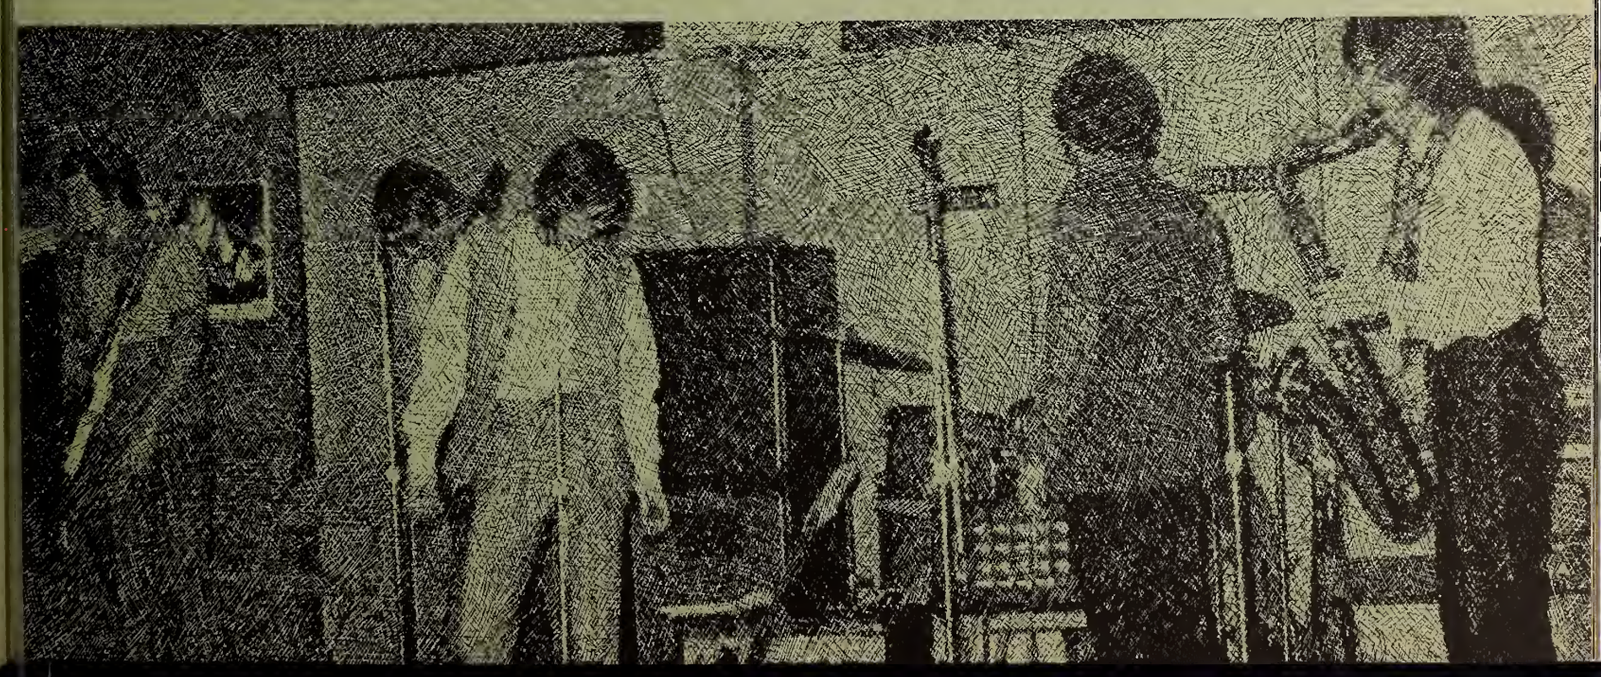

The first annual Italian banquet took place at Bino's Restaurant on Wednesday, December 2nd. The banquet was well attended by students, parents, and teachers. The Club was especially honored by the presence of President and Mrs. Sachs. The evening's activities included dinner, entertainment, slides, songs and dancing.

On Thursday, February 18th, Dr. J. P. Maher shared his experiences in Venice through a slide program sponsored by the Club Italiano.

Italian language and culture were accented when the Club brought to Northeastern the Italian version of "La Strada", one of Fellini's film masterpieces.

Future plans of the Club Italiano include: a lecture on Dante's "La Divina Commedia", film highlights of the 1970 World Cup Soccer games, a dance featuring an Italian rock band and finally, preparations are under way for a Summer 1972 trip to Italy.

The officers of the Club Italiano for 1970-1971, Gloria Maria Cruz (President), Joseph Locascio (Vice-President), Beverly Nichols (Secretary), Diane Fuggiti (Treasurer), Joseph Atria (Sergeant-at-Arms), and Dr. B. Galassi (Sponsor), extend a special invitation to the students of NISC to join the Club Italiano and participate in its activities. "Benvenuti" means "Welcome".

An Israeli Programs Week sponsored by Klal helped to bring information and ideas to the university. Other events were held at the Max Strauss Jewish Community Center. Another project sponsored by Klal was the initiation of Kosher sandwiches in the cafeteria in January 1971.

Through social and cultural programs Klal seeks to awaken and strengthen each member's personal awareness and identification with Jewish life.

Aware of the bewilderment that faces the incoming freshman, Northeastern established freshman orientation meetings, conducted by the Mentors. The Mentors, upperclassmen who have taken extensive training in group dynamics under the supervision of Mrs. Bernice Zimmerman, help the freshman through the various problems and complications that can take place during one's first trimester at Northeastern.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Zimmerman, the Mentors study the proper techniques for effective group leadership and participation. During the second summer session, the prospective Mentors experiment with various group techniques and through this first-hand experience, readings, and movies, they prepare for their own freshman groups.

When the fall trimester begins, the Mentors meet with their freshmen weekly for discussions, advice, and assistance in showing the new Northeasterners how our school operates. In the fall, weekly sessions take place between the Mentors and Mrs. Zimmerman where problems are discussed and solutions suggested.

NEWMAN CLUB

The Newman Club is an organization that offers students at Northeastern's commuter campus a sense of being part of a community. The Newman Center, at 5450 North Kimball, provides a place where students can spend their free time, study, and meet friends. On Friday night there is always an activity planned, whether it be staying at the Center for a party or taking in a play, a movie, or ice skating. Each Saturday night there is the Corn Cellar Coffee Cove, a coffee house that provides inexpensive entertainment.

The Center also serves the Catholic Community by a Saturday night Mass and special services for the holy days.

Nonverbal communication of thought and ideas is the basic goal of Orchesis. A wide range of feelings and moods are expressed and interpreted exclusively through physical movement. This dance group has come together under the direction of Mrs. Trina Collins for the purpose of not only experimenting with coordination of movement and thought as a means of expression, but also to introduce and expose the students at Northeastern to the art of modern and impressionistic dancing.

On June 24, 1971, Orchesis performed "Dance Et. al" in the UNI auditorium which included a series of dances concerning various ideas. Witchcraft, romance, comedy, and ecology were a few of the areas to which the presentation related.

During the fall 1971 term Orchesis performed at Northeastern Illinois University again. Any persons interested in being a part of the Orchesis dance club should contact Mrs. Trina Collins in the gym annex or the club officers. The club officers are Patricia Kazek (President) and Melanie Mirek (Vice-President).

The Stage Players provide Northeastern with a variety of theatre entertainment. Included in its projects have been Theatre Lab (which gives student productions an opportunity to be performed), Children's Productions (which enables children from Chicago area schools to view live performances of some of their favorite stories), as well as other major productions of a more sophisticated nature. Growing in the number of their members, in the range of services which they can provide, and in the knowledge and experience they are accumulating, the Stage Players welcome everyone who has an interest in the theatre.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

During the past year, the student government was abandoned because of the disinterest of the students. In the Winter trimester of 1971, however, the Student Government was reborn. An election was held resulting in twenty-five new senators and four new officers. The new officers are:

George Crowley —President
Greg Kmiec —Vice-President
Al Lamirand —Treasurer
Kathy Moore —Secretary

One of the main purposes of this newly elected government is to rebuild the Student Senate so that it will be able to properly represent all the students. For example, the former committees which had been disbanded have been reformed. A revised Constitution was readied to present to the student body in the fall. Student representatives to the Student Fees and Allocations Committee have been appointed and are working on the various budgets presented to them. A Parking Ticket Review Board has been established and is functioning. A Student Faculty Affairs Committee has been established and has developed its policy. These are just three examples of newly functioning committees.

The Student Government has been asked by several other student governments in the area to form a council which will meet monthly to discuss various college problems. The Student Government hopes to succeed in all these directions and is working toward fully representing every student to his best advantage, as well as developing a feeling of unity within the student body.

The Union for Puerto Rican Students was founded in order to promote the appreciation of the Puerto Rican culture, to enhance the understanding of the Puerto Rican people, and to establish common bonds between the Puerto Rican students and the rest of the college community.

Through cultural, social, and educational programs, the club works to meet its goal of finding the solutions to problems facing Puerto Rican students and all students at Northeastern.

With membership open to all present and past Northeastern students, the Union for Puerto Rican students only requires that its members be interested in some aspect of Puerto Rican life —whether it's culture, language, or problems.

ALPHA CHI EPSILON

The purpose of Alpha Chi Epsilon is to further the interests of the students, the administration, and the surrounding community by developing a strong and lasting understanding among these groups. This is accomplished through service benefitting all people involved.

During 1971 Alpha Chi Epsilon had an Easter raffle, the profits from which went to charity, and a number of mixers planned for all the students. In addition to these activities, the fraternity brothers serve as ushers at various school functions.

The 1971 officers of Alpha Chi Epsilon are: Henry Forde (President), Jay LaGambina (Vice-President), Gerry Carsello (Treasurer), Ted Duber (Recording Secretary), Bob Gruss (Corresponding Secretary), John Przebota (Sergeant-at-arms), Cleophia Neal (Chaplain), and Rudy Gutowski (Pledge Master).

Alpha Rho Omega was founded as both a social and a service sorority. This year's activities have included a Heart Fund collection, and earning money to sponsor a Mexican boy's education in the United States. The sorority sponsors several mixers, including an annual mixer for electing the Big Man On Campus. (The 1971 Big Man On Campus was Jim Dobner). Frequently the profits from the mixers are donated to one of Alpha Rho Omega's charity projects.

In addition to these activities, the sisters enjoy many other social events. Hayrides, Christmas caroling, a formal dinner-dance, a Mother-Daughter luncheon, and numerous pajama parties are just a few of the things that make being an ARO sister so enjoyable.

LAMBDA SIGMA ALPHA

Having received its charter in 1962, Lambda Sigma Alpha is the oldest sorority on campus and also the largest with fifty active sisters. The chief purpose of the sorority is one of service to the school and community at large.

Among the in-school activities are a Penny Carnival, raffles, a Valentine's Day Candy Sale and a Winter Formal at Christmas time. With members whose interests and activities cover a wide range the sisters have adopted a Korean boy, and write to him regularly. In addition, as service to the school, the sisters of LSA usher for concerts, graduations and other school functions. The carving of pumpkins at Halloween and the distributions of candy to hospitalized children at Christmas and Easter are some of the outside activities. Lambda Sigma Alpha held their popular annual Mother-Daughter Luncheon on Sunday, May, 23, 1971 at Belvedere Restaurant.

Sponsored by Dr. Elyse Mach, this year's officers were Bernie Serwa (President), Karen Vaisvilas (Vice-President), Phyllis Adomitis (Recording Secretary), Linda Boquist (Corresponding Secretary), and Diane Kuzma (Treasurer).

SIGMA ALPHA IOTA —INTERNATIONAL Professional fraternity for women in the field of music.

To sing the song of sincerity and universal peace
To speak the words that build and that bless
To study and practice the goodness of life
the beauty of art, the meaning of music
To strive for the joy of simplicity, for the noble
To falter never in seeking service, wisdom and understanding
To be faithful over a few things
To listen —to be still — and know the harmony of within
And again to practice —

Northeastern's only school and community service sorority, Sigma Tau Sigma was established when the university was known as Chicago Teachers College. Following their goal of "culturally and educationally enriching disadvantaged children through tutoring," the sisters of Sigma Tau Sigma have worked as tutors in hospitals, orphanages, disciplinary homes, and community schools. Because Northeastern is no longer completely a teachers college, many of the sisters are not future teachers. These sisters help plan fund-raising projects, the proceeds from which go to children's charities.

Halloween Dress-up and candy sale, pizza parties, car washes, and get-togethers with fraternities from other colleges are all included in the fun of Sigma Tau Sigma sisterhood. Famous Flower Power, the beautiful dinner dance to celebrate the sorority's birthday, theatre parties, and Mother-Daughter Luncheons, are all traditional activities.

This year's events included a St. Patrick's Day Bake Sale and an Easter raffle, both of which serve a double purpose: sharing fun and food with fellow students and donating funds to charities.

From summer picnics and road rallies to winter ski excursions and caroling parties at Christmas, the Sigma Tau Sigma sisters enjoy a year filled with friendship and fun.

The men of Tau Kappa Epsilon represent the only national social fraternity on campus. Tau Kappa Epsilon, with its thirty-seven active members, helps adapt new male students to college life both scholastically and socially. Popular with the entire student body are the Tau Kappa Epsilon mixers which occur twice a month and the annual Sweetheart Dance. Active in the intramural sports on campus, the fraternity also participates within the college community in such work as raising money for the Ray Schellong scholarship fund given to a deserving athlete, and in helping to give donations of blood. Not merely a fraternity for the men's college years, Tau Kappa Epsilon is also their fraternity for the rest of their lives.

BASEBALL TEAM

The 1971 baseball season was filled with outstanding individual performances. Four players were named to the All Conference Team (Bob Nowinski, Ed Miller, Marty Oscarson, Jim Dobner), while Bob Nowinski and Bob Jelen were selected to the NAIA All District Squad.

Although the team did not successfully defend its Chicagoland Conference Championship, many team and individual records were broken. Solid pitching, outstanding hitting, and a sound defense enabled UNI to win 15 games in 1971 against the toughest schedule in the team's short existence. Teams such as Illinois, Lewis College, Northwestern, Union University, and Olivet College were among Northeastern's opponents.

Including people who are bowling both for credit and non-credit, the Bowling League provides banquets at the end of the fall and winter trimesters.

During these banquets, trophies are awarded to the best teams and to the individual men and women who have excelled in certain areas of bowling. With Mr. Mueller as sponsor, Bowling League is open to all students.

The Golden Eagles finished a highly successful year in 1971, winning 15 games, while losing 13. This is quite an achievement in comparison to the 1969-70 record of 7 wins—17 losses. It would appear from this and other factors that the Eagle fortune is on the upgrade. With nine men out of the present 12 man squad returning, the team's future looks bright. An additional cause for optimism is the fact that the freshman team, with its outstanding 1971 record, will be moving up to the varsity team.

Coach Isadore Salario feels most enthusiastic because some very powerful teams have been added to the 1972 schedule. The University of Detroit, Hamline University, Quincy College, and Ashland College (the last college being one of the top defensive teams in the nation), are included in the line-up of opponents.

CHEERLEADERS

The Cheerleading Club, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Collins, has been leading basketball fans, and for the first time, football fans, in a variety of cheers since it was first organized in 1966. Enthusiasm and strenuous practice sessions are indispensable to the cheerleader whose goals are never-ending smiles and the uniting of everyone in an esprit de corps during the games and pep rallies.

The cheerleaders were chosen for their ability to fulfill these qualifications. "Energetic" is their key word and these girls have to put that extra bit of vitality into each game.

Football finally arrived on Northeastern's campus in the fall of 1970 as a result of student petitions and the concerted efforts of a determined group of men who recognized the big gap in the sports scene at Northeastern.

Many obstacles, including coaching and financial problems, seemed insurmountable. For awhile it appeared that the football club plans would collapse under the many complications that continued to occur. Not being permitted to use school facilities for practice purposes, the men had to search for a place in which to practice. Considered a club and not a team, the group did not qualify for sufficient funds to pay for their expenses. Resolved to have Northeastern participate in inter-collegiate football, the organizers persisted in trying to overcome the difficulties that continued to occur.

Finally in the fall of 1970, the Northeastern Football Club played its first game against the semi-professional Rockford Lions. Its first inter-collegiate game was held against Prairie State College at Winnemac Park.

Although Prairie State was a well-organized team, Northeastern won the game 21-6, a score that encouraged the newly formed team.

More successes followed. Loyola, Marquette and Prairie State College (the latter for a second time) all were defeated.

The run of good fortune could not last, however, and the first Northeastern defeat occured against Lauris College. The loss was a bitter one as the final score was 19-18, a score that surprised everyone for it appeared Northeastern was certain to win.

This loss was followed by a second defeat by the number one football club in the nation, the University of St. Louis. Facing a crowd of 20,000 St. Louis fans, Northeastern lost by the devastating score of 56-6.

Only temporarily discouraged, however, the UNI Football Club returned to the winning side as they defeated the University of Chicago, and Marquette University for the second time. This latter victory over Marquette occured during the Homecoming game in which 600 Northeastern fans watched Northeastern trounce Marquette by a score of 30-0.

In terms of future plans, the Northeastern Football Club hopes to receive the full support of the student body and in return will endeavor to support the students. An ambitious and perhaps idealistic hope of the group is to "put Northeastern on the map of the United States."

Still, the club might very welll succeed: it is now part of the Midwest National Conference, which provides an opportunity for all winning teams to join various Bowl games. With last year's impressive score of 7 wins—2 losses, and its final standing as the thirteenth place football club of the 400 clubs in the nation, the Northeastern Football Club looks as though it will bring much recognition to Northeastern.

GYMNASTICS

1971 has been a busy year for Coach Betty Meyer's women gymnasts. Outscoring Wheaton, Valparaiso, Harper, DePaul, George Williams, Kishwaukee, Mundelein, and Triton, the Gymnastic Team won all of their dual meets this year. At the Concordia Sectional Meet, in which nine schools participated, the NISC beginner level team won third place and the low-intermediate level took second place.

Outstanding team members were Rose Tamura who took first place in floor exercise, balance beam, vaulting and second place on the uneven parallel bars, and Davia Baldauf who placed third on the balance beam.

Twelve schools took part in the Illinois State Meet at Northern Illinois University. The Northeastern beginner level team finished in fourth place, and the low-intermediate team tied for fifth place with Southern Illinois University. Davia Baldauf took the State Beginner Championship on the balance beam with teammate Sue Schak in second place. Rose Tamura won third on the uneven parallel bars, balance beam and all around performance at the low-intermediate level.

Other activities this year include participation in the Physical Education Majors Playday for Chicago area high school students and aiding in the Midwest Open Gymnastic Meet.

Pompom Girls is a club organized for the purpose of performing at all home basketball games and some games off campus. Composed of 12 girls and Dr. Edgar Gangware, the sponsor, the Pompom Girls work with the Cheerleaders to promote school spirit and cheer the team to victory.

For homecoming the girls give a special performance according to the homecoming theme.

Requiring enthusiasm and strenuous practice sessions, the Pompom Girls were chosen for their rhythmic skills in dance. Their goal is to make everyone enjoy themselves and join in the fun of the games.

A STRING OF BALLADS

Glenn Yarbrough

A string of ballads strung by Balladeer Glenn Yarbrough in the UNI Concert Series included: "Love's Been Good to Me," "She," "Joy to the World," and the pearl of the performance, "Baby the Rain Must Fall."

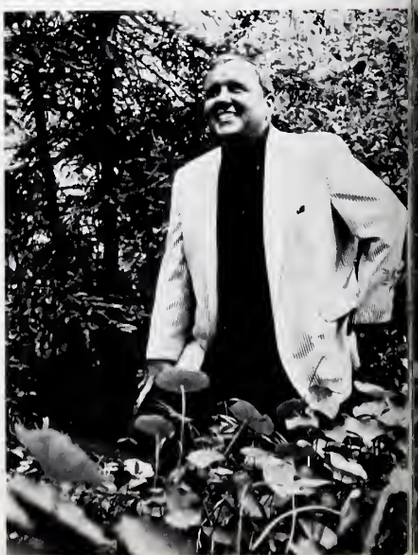

Balladeer

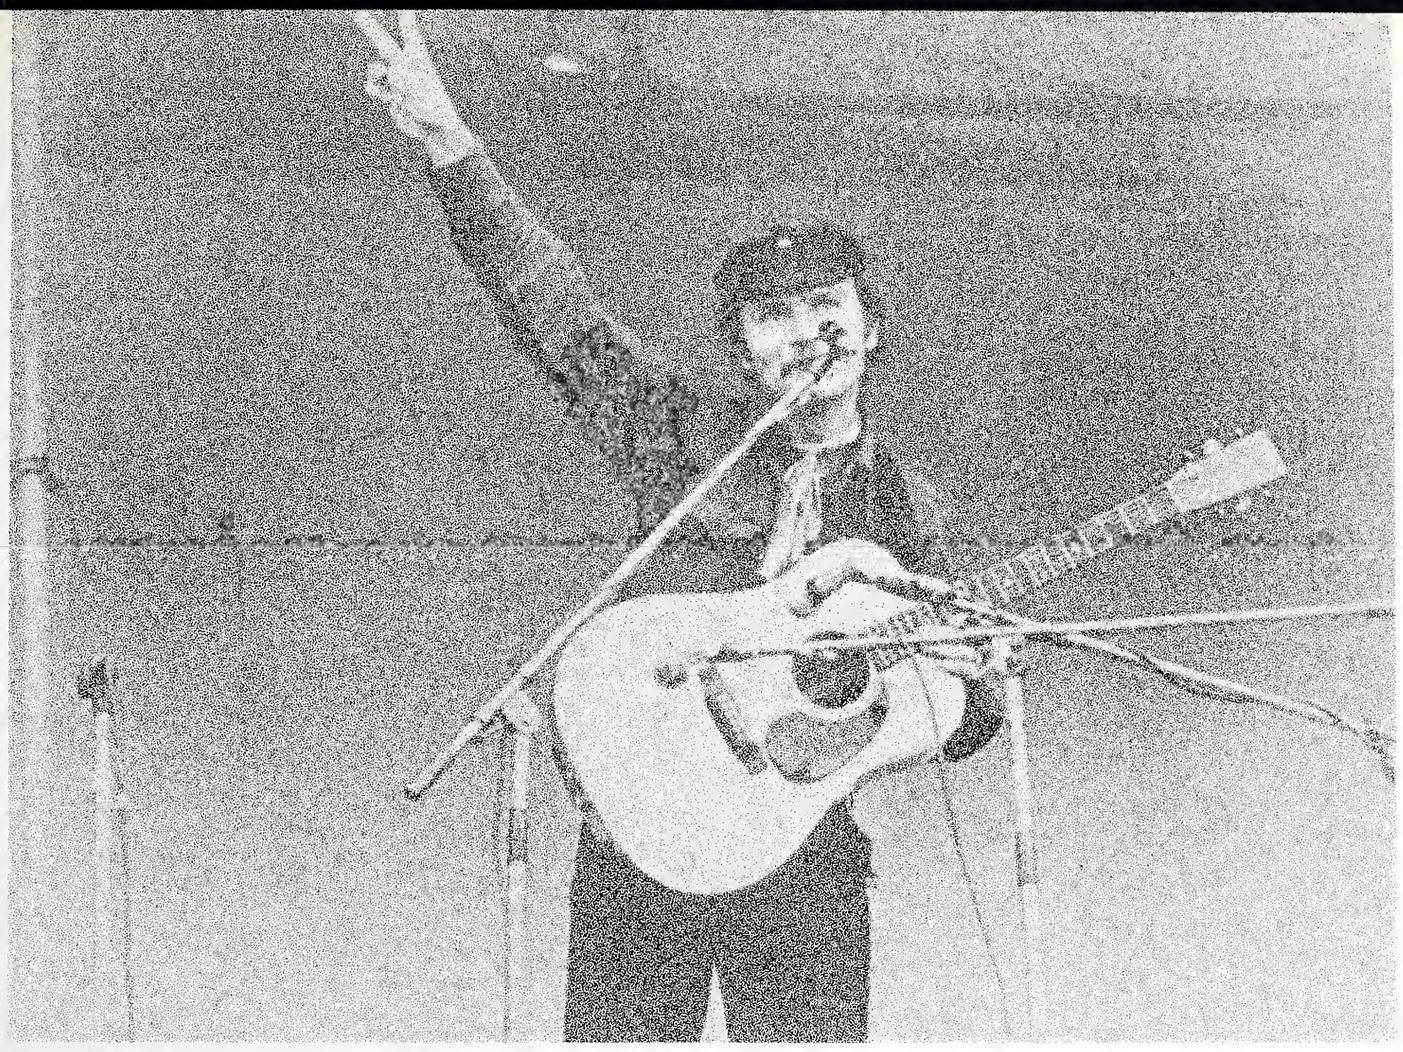

"I don't suppose Glenn Yarbrough ever kissed a girl, sailed a boat or sang a song he wasn't a little bit in love with. Maybe that's what makes him different from some of the rest of us . . . for he is unique in his relationships with people, in his way of living and in his approach to singing."

Glenn's singing career started when he was "A bright-eyed choir boy, typically untamed and impish, but with the unspoiled voice of an angel and an almost consuming passion for singing. He was delightfully spontaneous, indifferent to non-essentials, making no pretense and seeking to imitate no one. He possesed that all too common facility for being intellectually honest and singularly frank."

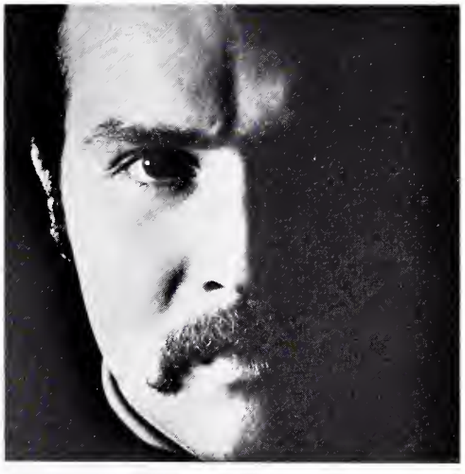

Glenn's singing career will end in January 1972. But he will remain vitally alive, living a life few even dream of—a genuinely rare breed of man who has an honest evaluation of himself that success can never spoil.

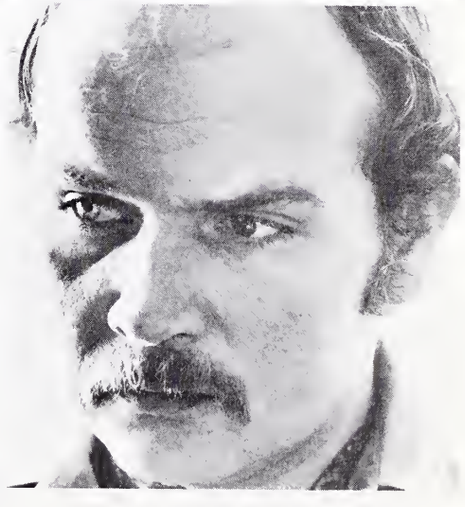

ALL STRUNG UP

Tom Paxton
June 15, 1971

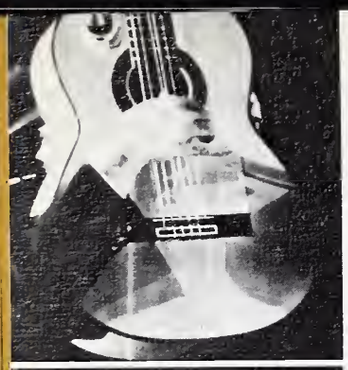

Between guitar strings and mike cords in the UNI auditorium June 15, Tom Paxton was all strung up. But being the straight folk singer that he is, Tom Paxton off-stage is Tom Paxton on-stage. Folk-poet, Tom Paxton, was every bit of this at UNI.

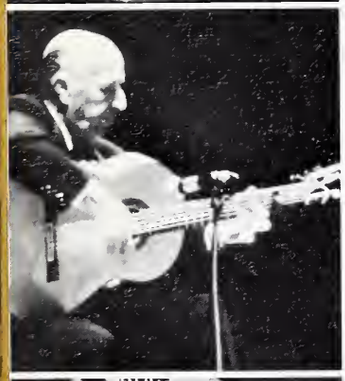

Folk-Poet

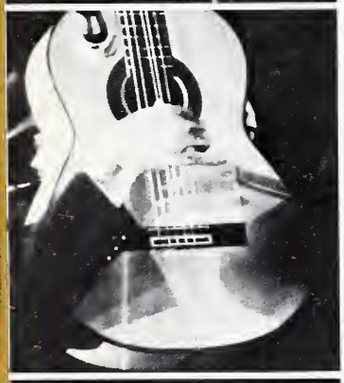

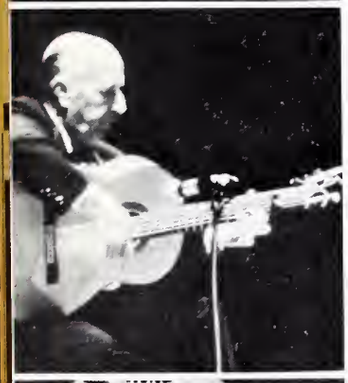

The poet's comments between folk songs are comments he makes while playing cards or watching football. They simply fall out, unrehearsed and are exquisitely timed. "If I've had any success at all, it's because I never come on as anything I'm not. An audience knows when it's being fooled. It's the easiest thing to spot."

The folk-singer has set down feelings and visions of small things as well as major problems and headlines of the day. Some of his folk-songs include "The Marvelous Toy," "The Last Thing on my Mind," and "What Did You Learn in School?". "Can't Help but Wonder Where I'm Bound," "Daily News," and "Ramblin' Boy" and others were performed for the UNI audience. Folk-poet Paxton said, "More and more, with every folk-song I write, I try to record what I see and leave out what I think. What I'm really trying to do is document the time, not the attitude of the time. But the time includes a lot of things."

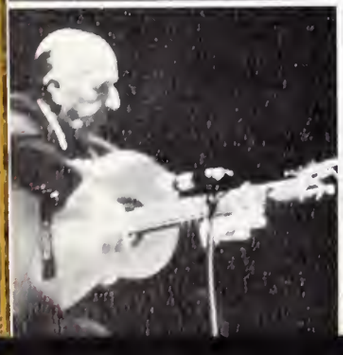

KEEPING CARLOS ON THE STRING

UNI's Concert Series kept guitarist Carlos Montoya on the string until 8 p.m. Thursday, January 28. After 8 p.m., contract strings deferred to guitar strings when Montoya's infinitely varied repertoire filled the auditorium.

Montoya's virtuoso guitar music has won him the titles of "most recorded Flamenco artist in history" and "the living symbol of Flamenco music."

Carlos Montoya
January 28, 1971
Flamenco-Guitarist

The Flamenco wizardry of Carlos Montoya has evoked hosannahs and olès from audiences the world over. He is one of the most widely heard performers in any concert genre. Montoya has brought his Flamenco music to virtually every outpost of the free world, from the U.S. and Canada to Europe and the Orient, eliciting critical acclaim and audience approbation everywhere. The first Flamenco guitarist ever to dare display his artistry in a solo concert, he has been hailed by aficionados everywhere as one of the truly great masters of our time.

Carlos Montoya was born in Madrid. He is, as the Spaniard's say, "Gitano por los cuatro costados," or, literally, "Gypsy on all four sides." This directly affects his music and his playing, for to play Flamenco one must have at least some gypsy in his blood. Herein lies the difference in approach which distinguishes Flamenco from classical guitar. As Carlos says, "Flamenco must come from the heart."

At the age of eight, Carlos started playing. He learned first from his mother, "la Tula," who played guitar for her own enjoyment, then from "Pepe el Barbero," a barber in Madrid who also taught the guitar. After one year, Pepe said there was nothing more he could teach his talented pupil, so Carlos left to gain what he could from the great Flamenco guitarists of the time. At fourteen he was playing in the "Cuadros Flamencos," in the heyday of Flamenco singing and dancing, for such fabulous artists as Antonio de Bilbao, Juan el Estampio, La Macarrona and La Camisona.

Montoya's real training came, however, in the school of experience. When the late Antonio Merce—La Argentina—came to Madrid looking for a guitarist, she chose Montoya. Thus, he left his native Spain for the first time to tour Europe with her for three years. This was only the beginning of his many concert tours which were to take him all over the world. After performing with Argentina, he went on to play for the great names of the time—La Argentinita, Antonio, Vicente Escudero, Carmen Amaya when she was still a child, Teresina and many more.

In 1948 Montoya took a step then unheard of for any Flamenco guitarist, who had always worked with a singer or dancer. He decided to give a full concert recital of Flamenco guitar music. Since the repertoire of most Flamenco players is limited, such a program had never been presented. It was a formidable idea, but Carlos Montoya realized it with equally formidable success, going on to give solo recitals both in Europe and throughout the U.S. and Canada. Gaining an ever-growing following, he culminated these appearances with a New York concert at Town Hall, which was so crowded that 75 extra seats had to be placed on the stage to accommodate the overflow at every subsequent New York appearance, as well as at many of his out-of-town engagements.

One of the most interesting and important things to realize about these recitals is that Carlos Montoya creates as he goes along. What he plays are all his own arrangements and original compositions based on the Spanish gypsy tradition. This is truly creative playing in the fullest sense of the term.

Hands Moved by Heart

Possessing an advanced technique among Flamenco players, Montoya is always an innovator and, for that reason, always a tremendously exciting performer to hear. Although he never plays an arrangement of his without adding something new, he has had many of his pieces published in an effort to capture at least some part of this wonderfully rich art form that heretofore had never been written down. In January of 1966 he culminated a 25 year dream when his "Suite Flamenca," a suite for guitar and orchestra, had its world premiere with the St. Louis Symphony, and has since received raves from critics.

However, Carlos Montoya and his music are inseparable; he does not perform it—he lives it.

"Montoya plays with his head, hands and heart seeming to evoke the very soul of Spain."

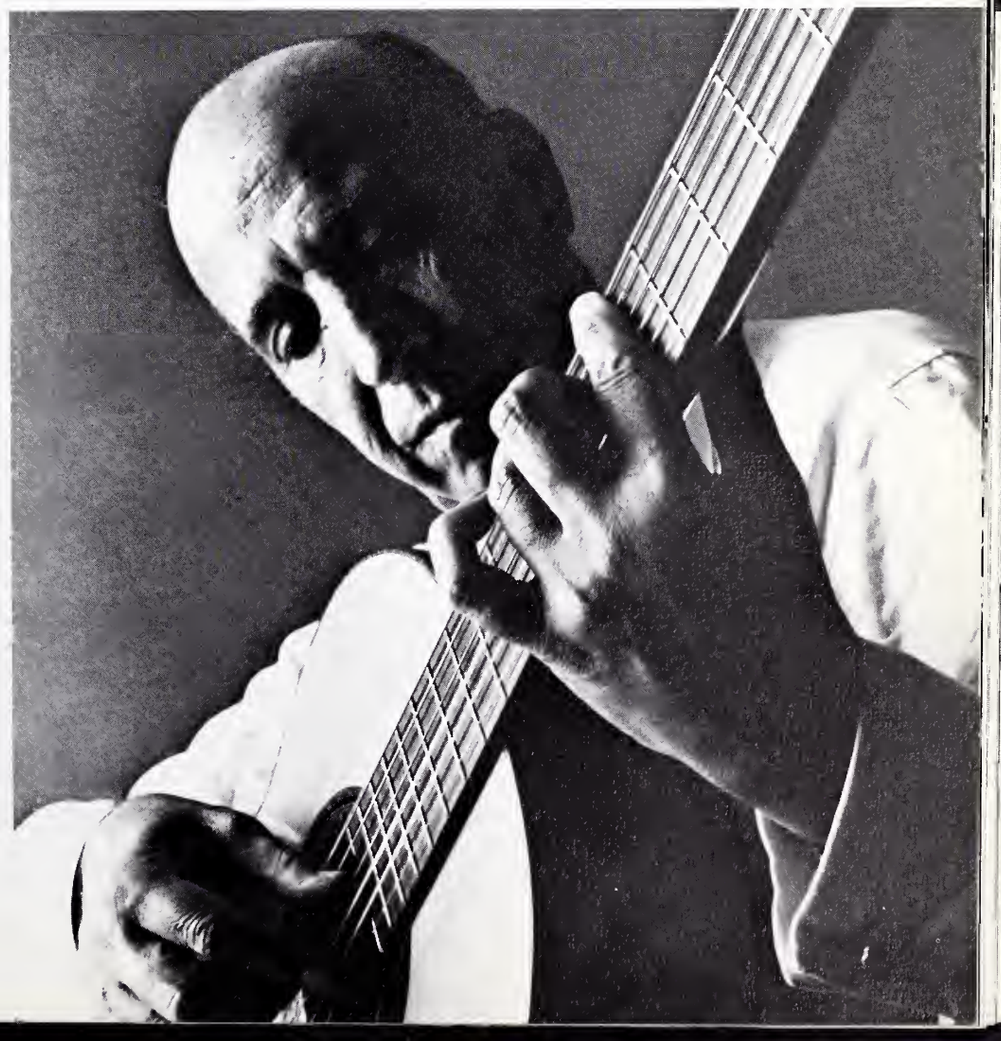

Flamenco music comes from the Spanish gypsies. Until now there has been no written music for it. In the UNI Concert Series, Montoya presented his own arrangements of the old themes and his own compositions in typical gypsy rhythm.

There is something bordering on the mystical in Carlos Montoya's approach to the Flamenco guitar. The essence of Flamenco is the improvisation as the artist moves along. It comes from the heart, from the soul, and indeed, from the Spanish gypsy tradition that spawned Flamenco music itself.

"If you stop to think about it when you are playing," says Montoya with a smile, "the spirit just disappears." We gypsies are really quite unanalytical; you might even say, unintellectual. Trying to analyze the music as you play it can only cripple you artistically. You feel something, you make the guitar mirror your feelings. Other than that, one cannot be said to really "learn Flamenco."

The affection and emotion Montoya infuses into his music are invariably reflected in the reactions of his audience, and this reaction never fails to make its impact on the guitarist. "It's more than I can describe," he says. "I don't know how to say it—just one man and a guitar out there in front of thousands of people."

Flamenco is the man's life—his ruling passion. In Montoya, the musical world has an artist who is truly in love with his work, although he insists that music is not his work. "It is," he states simply, "my life."

ALL STRINGS ATTACHED

Suzuki Violinists October 14, 1970

All violin strings were attached when a most delightful surprise came to the UNI auditorium October 14, 1970. The Suzuki violinists came to visit.

The Suzuki Violinists' visit was a surprise because the Concert Series is not allowed to book the same performers twice. But the demand for the Suzuki Violinists was so great due to their performance here last year, that they graced the UNI stage once again. It was to the delight of all in attendance.

Ten Tiny Troopers

Through Talent Education, Teacher Shinichi Suzuki's ten tiny violinists on tour from Japan tuned the UNI audience into tonalities from Mozart, Vivaldi and Mendelssohn. This was the sixth transcontinental American tour by the young Suzuki students in which they have captivated their audiences with their fine musicianship, the accuracy of their playing and the beauty of their intonation.

The philosophy behind Talent Education, the violinists' program, was explained. The teaching of music to the very young is like training someone to speak the mother tongue. At a very early age, children exhibit a remarkable intellectual achievement. They learn to speak a language—their own—and they do so almost entirely by imitation . . . as is the teaching of music through the Suzuki plan.

It was asked what will happen to the children when they outgrow Talent Education. The children can go on for musical careers or, at least, they will be able to appreciate music and, through it, the feelings of people of other countries.

ALL KEYED UP

Dave Brubeck
April 6, 1971

"No one's got one" was the answer. "What's your definition of jazz?" was the question. Dave Brubeck, personification of jazz was speaking.

"All right, if that's jazz. What's progressive jazz?" "More progressive than jazz."

Progressive Piano

Informality was the tone being set by Dave Brubeck before his concert in the UNI auditorium April 6. The piano might have been all keyed up but Brubeck wasn't. He had just risen from the piano where he was warming up while the audience waited outside to fill the house. His informality was stressed when he said, "I hate all labels."

There were no programs at UNI. When the concert began, Brubeck, internationally known jazz pianist and composer, and Saxophonist Gerry Mulligan mentioned that they didn't know exactly what they were going to play. Brubeck hinted at "Some standards and some things Gerry's written."

There were three cantatas named by Brubeck: "Truth is Fallen in the Street," "Gates of Justice," and "The Lightening in the Wilderness."

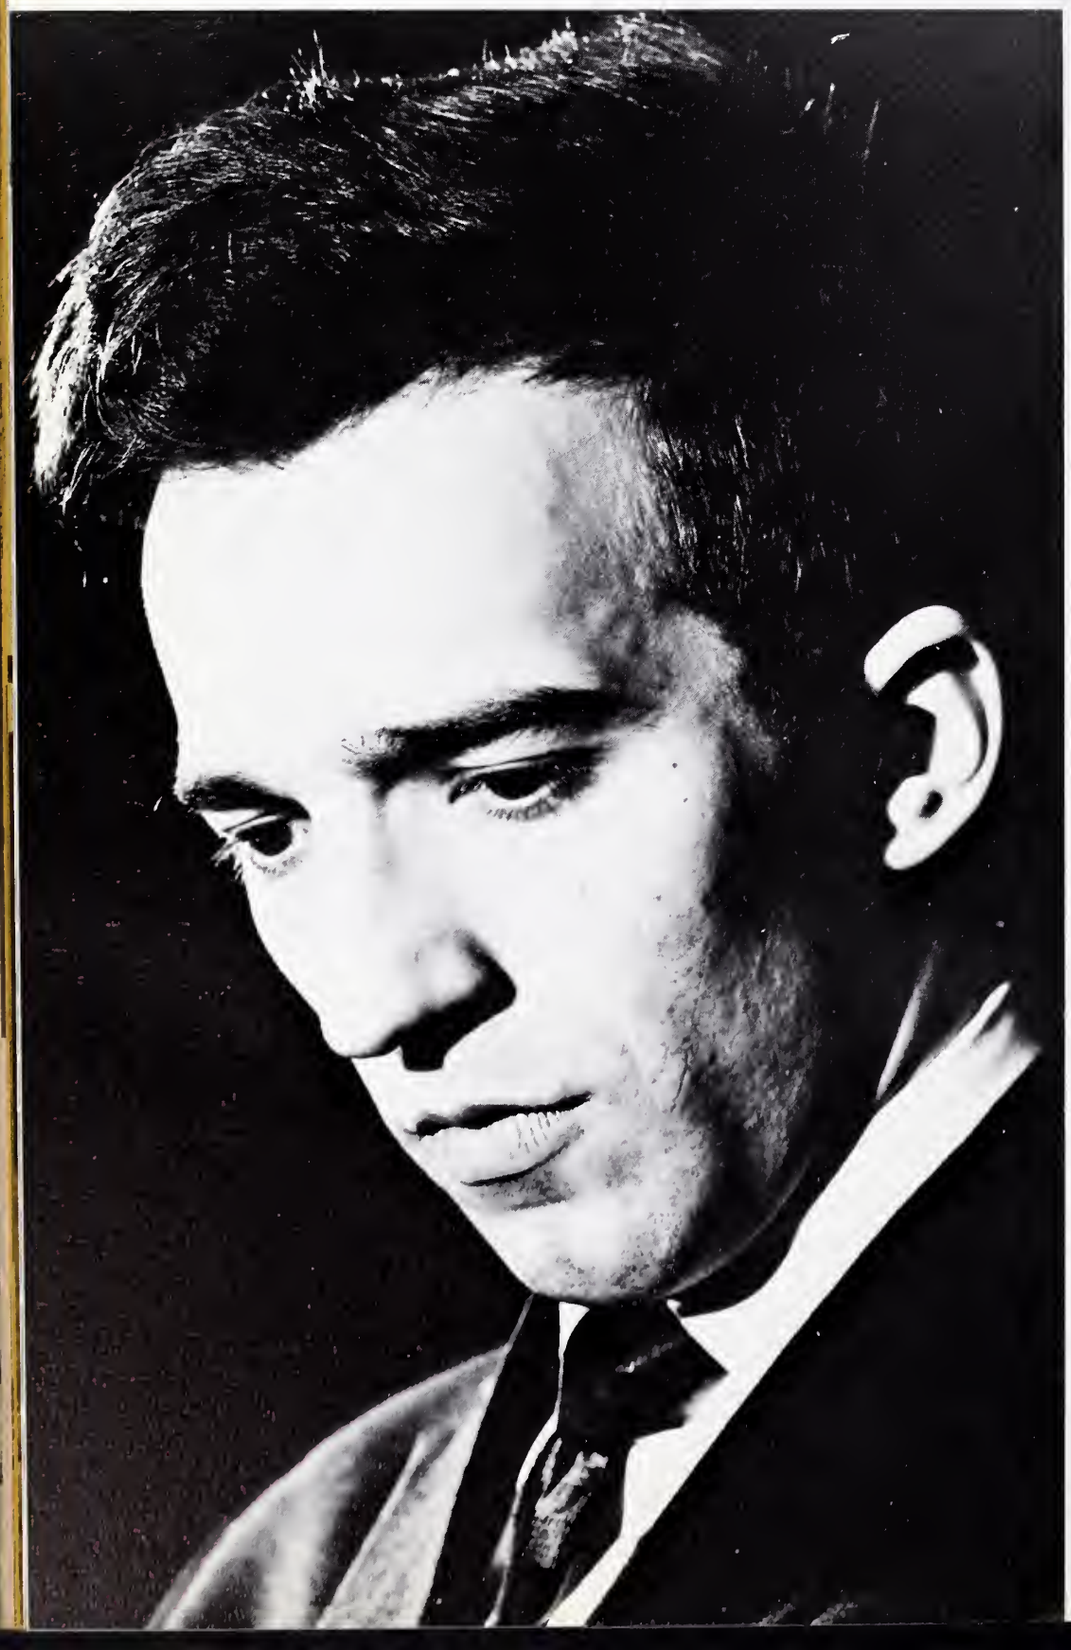

KEYNOTE CONCERT

Vladimir Ashkenazy
March 15, 1971

ASHKENAZY DEFECTION

From Krushchev Remembers (by Nikita Krushchev)
Chapter 21 "Defending the Socialist Paradise"

"When I was the head of the government, the young pianist Ashkenazy married an Englishwoman who had studied in one of our conservatories. They had a baby and went to England to visit the wife's parents. Shortly afterwards Gromyko reported to me that our ambassador in London had cabled the following story: Ashkenazy came to our embassy in London and said that his wife refused to go back to the Soviet Union. He loved her very much and asked our embassy what to do. Now, I should mention that I had heard Ashkenazy play and had personally congratulated him when he won first prize at the Tchaikovsky Competition. He's an excellent pianist and I often hear him on the radio. I consulted with my comrades and proposed, "Let's give Ashkenazy permission to live in England however long he wants. That way he'll always be able to return to the Soviet Union. We really have no alternative. If we insist that he leave his wife and return home, he'll refuse. He's not an anti-Soviet, but we could turn him into one if we put him in the position of having to choose between staying with his wife and obeying his government. He would immediately fall into the clutches of emigres and other types who would start working on him, beating all sorts of anti-Soviet ideas into his head. We don't want that to happen. What's wrong with him living in London while keeping his Soviet citizenship? He can come back to Moscow anytime to give concerts. After all, he's a musician, and that's a free profession."

Everyone agreed, and my suggestion was accepted.

These days I often listen to the radio. My radio is my constant companion when I go out for walks. I get both information and pleasure from it. I love folk music and folk songs. I also like some contemporary music, but I'll confess that a man of my age is more inclined to the things which were part of his youth. Most radio programs are pretty good, but there's a certain amount of trash polluting the air. It always gives me special pleasure when I turn on the radio and hear it announced that Ashkenazy has come to Moscow to give a concert. I'm glad we protected his good name as a great Soviet pianist and saved his family life in the process. Perhaps the time will come when Ashkenazy and his wife will want to come back and settle in Moscow for good. Or perhaps they will settle in London. I'm not excluding that possibility. So what. Let them live where they want. I think the time has come to give every Soviet citizen that choice. If he wants to leave our country and live somewhere else for a while, all right; we should give him that opportunity. It's incredible to me that after fifty years of Soviet power, paradise should be kept under lock and key."

Vladimir Ashkenazy is not a large man. But in the arms, shoulders and chest he appears uncommonly powerful. Power is not an unusual condition in pianists. But there are powerful pianists who are not dependable musicians. Ashkenazy adds power to his reputation as a dependable pianist.

Power and dependability were evident in Ashkenazy's keynote concert in the UNI auditorium March 15. Another characteristic recognized was his discipline. The piano performance was an example of discipline of body and discipline of mind. His discipline is the unobtrusive ability to get things into place, without displaying more of the machinery by which the getting was done, than of the things, or the place in which they are deposited.

Piano Prodigy

Gorky, in the Soviet Union, was where Ashkenazy was born in 1937 and where he began his formal musical studies at the age of six. His parents were pianists and teachers. He gave his first public performance at seven years old playing a Haydn concerto. When he was eight, he entered the Central Music School in Moscow where he was under the tutelage of Anaida Sumbatian for ten years. At 17 he took second prize in the Fifth International Chopin Competition in Warsaw. Then Ashkenazy, "Volodya" to his friends, entered the Moscow State Conservatory to work with Lev Oborin.

In 1956 the pianist came suddenly into international prominence when he won the first prize in the Queen Elizabeth Competition in Brussels, called the "Davis Cup of Music." Judges included Artur Rubenstein, Robert Casadesus and Emil Gilels.

In 1958 Ashkenazy first toured the United States and made a strong impression on the American critics and public. Carnegie Hall was sold out for his recital.

Then followed the First Tchaikowsky Competition in Moscow where Ashkenazy met Thorun (Dodi) Johannsdottir (Trygvasson) from Iceland, the youngest foreign pianist to perform there. In 1960 Dodi returned to Moscow to study under Oborin and she and Ashkenazy were soon married. They make their home in Reykjavik, Iceland, and have three children, Vladimir, 9, Nadia, 7 and Dimitri Thor, 2.

Adjectives become allusive in describing Ashkenazy. Critics proclaim: "poet of the piano," "world master," and "finest living keyboard artist." In February 1971 Ashkenazy's recital in Carnegie Hall was adjectived and adverbed "memorable performance" and "titanic interpretation of a titanic piece." Not bad laurels for the 34-year-old halfback of the Moscow Conservatory Soccer Team.

ROCK OF AGES

Wilderness Road

Wilderness Road is a band that refuses to be forced out of Chicago through lack of support or lack of community interest in the arts. Wilderness Road won't leave Chicago because it considers itself to be a Chicago band, and because it relates to the community, not the front office. Wilderness Road is not a group of teenagers with brand-new electric guitars—Wilderness Road has been on the scene for a while.

Religious Rock

Among the religious rock Wilderness Road presented during the UNI Concert Series was "God Isn't Dead" and "Heavily Into Jesus." Although not religious orientated, other selections were "Rock Garden," "Bounty Man," "Queasy Rider" and "Long Winter."

Of Wilderness Road Tom and Andy Haban are brothers who started out doing classical and chamber music. Shortly after trading their oboe and bassoon for a bass and drums, they met Nate Herman and Warren Leming, ex-Second City actors who'd been playing bluegrass and rock together for ten years. The foursome led to the Wilderness Road.

No printed program was possible with a spontaneous performance such as this one by the Preservation Hall Jazz Band. When these famous pioneers went to work on a pleasant evening in New Orleans they didn't know what the mood of the band or the audience would be, so they didn't know what music they would play. The same was true at the March 17th concert. The music was free, spirited and original, and the order of the tunes was too. The audience at UNI recognized many . . . some were even surprising songs in a new approach that amazed many. The audience just sat back and let the program happen . . . that's how jazz began.

Polyphonic Preservation

What is New Orleans music—hundreds of thousands of words have been written to describe it—no one has succeeded in that project. It started with tribal dances from Africa and sophisticated Creole Quadrilles . . . with funeral marches and Mardi Gras Parades . . . with the blues and sunny picnics . . . and all of those things are in jazz. It was originally polyphonic because everyone of these people was so talented that he could play the parts for ensemble sound. The emphasis is still on the ensemble, but each soloist must be heard as each one was at the beginning. The cornet or trumpet has the melody. The clarinet has the counterpoint. The trombone has the harmony. And then all of a sudden it is changed. This is happy music. It is improvised. It is simple and effective. It doesn't try for erratic effects. It sings and it laughs and it crys. And so do its listeners.

ON THEIR TOES

Les Ballets Africains
November 19, 1970

Les Ballets Africains might have been topless but they certainly weren't toeless November 19, 1970 in the UNI Concert Series.

Ensemble Artistique et Cultural De La Republique De Guinee

Created twenty-two years ago, Les Ballets Africains has become, with the Independence, the Republic of Guinea's National Ensemble, whose mission is to reveal through-out the world, both the African and Guinean societies' traditional expression of cultural values.

As far as we are concerned, authenticity is synonymous with reality. Since folklore is a gathering of traditions, poems, songs, dances and popular legends of one country, it logically reflects this countries' way of life. Dances thus become necessary; they are vital, imperious and direct. In this case, they are quite meaningful and the ballet which comes from these dances is, at this stage of our evolution, based uniquely on folklore.

The artists of Les Ballets Africains are anonymous artists performing in an anonymous troupe within which there are no first or second "stars."

Just as much as the peasant from the plains of the Tinkisso, the cattle raiser from the high mountains of the Fonta Djalton, the sailor from the Simandou, the coffee grower from Macenta, the soldier, the fisherman from the coast, the social worker, the clerk, the housewife or the student, the artists of Les Ballets Africains contribute to the national reconstruction, the rehabilitation of the African personality, the emancipation of the African people, and to peace and friendship between all people.

These artists were not initiated in the Paris or Vienna opera. Their choreographic initiation originates only from their authentic African education and from their own artistic discoveries. The singers know nothing but popular songs of Africa, the way they were sung in their distant villages.

The call of the tam-tam, the sound of the monostring guitar, of the balafon, the cora or the Peulh flute are sufficient to bring nostalgia to their heart and to carry them in a whirl of magic rhythms.

Whether they perform in a modest theatre or in a sumptuous opera house, they always perform with the same spirit, despite the footlights and the stage adaptions. They always perform as if they were performing in their own village, for the people of their own country. In this, Les Ballets Africains, from the Republic of Guinea, travelling ambassadors of the African culture, brought themselves to the high level of their mission, presenting to different people throughout the world the virtues and traditions of a whole continent which was ignored for so long.

However, Les Ballets Africains has not completely accomplished its endeavor. They can explore the vast cultural and folk resources of Africa and make them known all over the world. Because of that advantage, they will always come back with a new repertoire, a new program and a more expressive drive. For, Africa lives and it has to make its presence felt at the crossroads of all the meeting civilizations of the world.

FROM ROCKS TO RICHES

Friends of Distinction
October 14, 1970

Another performance in which the career of the fast-climbing Friends of Distinction vocal group went from rocks to riches was October 14, 1970 in the UNI auditorium. All eyes were focused on the UNI stage.

Jazz-Spiked Rock Beat

The band struck up the opening bars of their flash hit single, "Grazin' in the Grass" and they burst out from the wings to centerstage: Harry Elston, a funky mod cowboy in amply fringed leather, Floyd Butler, spiffy in his all-white tunic suit, Jessica Cleaves, an exhuberant kitten with up-turned nose, upflipped hair, dazzling in soft, clinging swirls of silver and white, and tiny trouper, Charlene Gibson.

They're the Friends of Distinction. And they've been making a distinct and indelible impression on night-club and college concert audiences from Vancouver to Vegas, from Nashville to Beverly Hills. Three hit singles ("Grazin' in the Grass," "You've Got Me Goin' In Circles," and "Love, Or Let Me Be Lonely") and three hit albums ("Grazin' In The Grass," "Highly Distinct," and "Real Friends") are part of the reason. Their unique sound—mellow, jazz-spiked, up-beat—is the main reason.

But their appeal goes beyond their music and beyond their hits to their onstage impact: an electric explosion of their highly distinct images. Then the magic recomposition of these separate personalities into the kind of solid, together sound that makes you think they've been singing together from the cradle. And that's the magnetic paradox of the Friends of Distinction. As their name says, they're friends and they're totally distinct personalities.

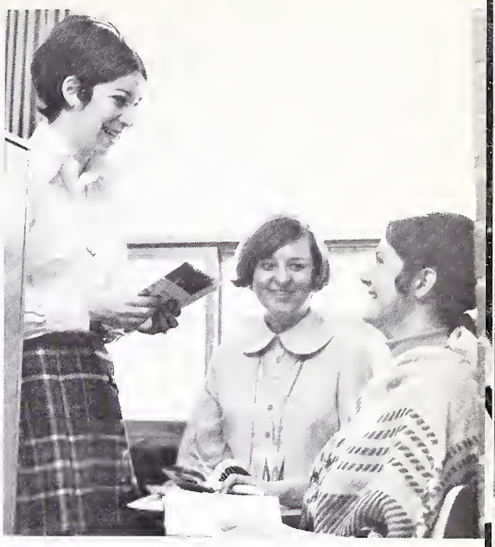

Distinct? Floyd's the court jester. Jessica's the great dancer. Harry's the quiet good-timer. Charlene's the tiny trouper.

Looks like their magic combination is propelling them to fresh conquests, bigger success, and a fulfillment of their name—to international distinction.

new years resovolution
do what you've never done before see what you've never seen feel what you've never felt before go where you've never been sing what you've never sung before say what you've never said bear what you've never born before hear what you've never heard all is not as it would seem nothing ever remains the same change is life's characteristic bend and flow and play the game
loose your chain
and do what you like get on your bike and do what you like
so many times
i was the one who stopped myself from doing things
so many times
i was the one who grounded myself and clipped my wings
so i say
do what you've never done before for fear of losing face you have nothing to defend now in your state of grace
all is not as it would seem nothing ever remains the same
change is life's characteristic
bend and flow and play the game
loose your chain
and do what you like—what you've never done before you must see what you have never seen feel what you have never felt before you must go where you have never been get on your bike and do what you like
so many times
i was the one who stopped myself from doing things
so many times
i was the one who grounded myself and clipped my wings
love is the gift of man which he will not receive within is the church of man yet he cannot perceive without is the realm of man he yet cannot conceive and man is the plague of man yet he will not believe there go you go i
there go you go i
